TV Series on Communism Is Prepared by Group W

"The Meaning of Communism," a television course for young people, has been completed by Group W of the Westinghouse Broadcasting Company in association with the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy at Tufts University.

The series of 30 half-hour programs features Dr. Marshall Shulman, professor of international relations at the Fletcher School, and Dr. Henry Roberts, professor of history at Columbia University.

"The Meaning of Communism" will be offered to schools and broadcasters. It will also be shown on Westinghouse stations in Boston, Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Cleveland and San Francisco.
